

FRENCH TERRY:

French terry is popular in both sporty or casual clothing and is ideal for the construction of garments such as an athlete's two-piece or a jogging suit, especially for jogging on cooler days. This suit is a great alternative to the warmer velour suits worn in the winter months. You will also see French terry in clothing such as shorts and athletic shirts. Another common use of French terry is in infant and toddler clothing.

You can now find French terry yoga or Pilates pants, which some feel are some of the most comfortable to wear for workouts. To summarize, this fabric is most used in infant clothing, workout clothes, and in light summer sporting garments.
